To The Science Co-ordinator

Live natural history presentations for schools and colleges.

Please allow me to introduce Impeyan Productions. We are a conservation based company providing informative and educational presentations concerning the wonderful world of natural history. Our presentations are directly focused at allowing children and adults alike to learn through direct interaction with live creatures in a fun and informative way. The company has been operating in an educational capacity for 30 years, although founder Charles Mason, has been caring for and breeding endangered species for most of his life. We have many projects currently running in association with other establishments both here and abroad concerning the breeding of endangered animals. These projects are funded solely through our presentations and lectures.

All our presenters are very enthusiastic and highly knowledgeable—we are the longest running and most experienced company in our field. The presentations start with birds and then move through the different parts of the animal kingdom; to insects, arachnids, amphibians, reptiles and mammals. We give a fascinating and unique insight into the major features of the groups as well as looking at some of the adaptations the individual animals have developed through evolution; the presentations cover all natural history aspects of the Key Stage syllabi. We can also provide presentations geared towards specific aspects of the syllabus, for example ‘mini beasts’, if required.

Much of the wildlife we take into schools is not available to private individuals and we feel very privileged to be able to keep many of our animals, this is only possible through our work with endangered wildlife.

The presentations are easily adapted for children of nursery age (where the children can learn that snakes aren't slimy and spiders aren't scary) through to Year 11 with varying levels of depth depending on the age group. Throughout the presentations, children will be asked to volunteer to assist with handling the animals under our expert supervision.

We can provide presentations lasting 45 minutes, 1 hour or 1½ hours for as many groups as required throughout your day (we do have a minimum booking of one hour). We offer a special discount for presentations booked for Monday to Friday between 9.00am and 3.00pm.

Impeyan Productions holds full public liability insurance cover. All of our presenters are CRB checked and members of Equity. Copies of our risk assessment and documents can be requested when booking a presentation.
